

ABSTRACT OF THE INVENTION

An improved mouse structure, having a receiving chamber within a hand-held portion of thereof. The receiving chamber is allocated without affecting operation of interior components of the mouse. The enclosure of 5 the mouse can be open to store or hide articles in the receiving chamber. Thereby, an additional article storage is provided by the existing mouse of the computer.